Senate OKs Iraq Deadline

Vote is a forceful challenge to Bush's handling of war

WASHINGTON | The Democratic-controlled Senate narrowly signaled support Tuesday for the withdrawal of U.S. combat troops from Iraq by next March, triggering an instant veto threat from the White House in a deepening dispute between Congress and commander in chief.

Republican attempts to scuttle the non-binding timeline failed, 50-48, largely along party lines.

The vote marked the Senate's most forceful challenge to the administration's handling of a war that has claimed the lives of more than 3,200 U.S. troops. It came days after the House approved a binding withdrawal deadline of Sept. 1, 2008.

After weeks of setbacks, Majority Leader Harry Reid said the moment was at hand to "send a message to President Bush that the time has come to find a new way forward in this intractable war."

But Republicans argued otherwise. John McCain, R-Ariz., a presidential hopeful, said, "we are starting to turn things around" in the Iraq war, and added that a timeline would encourage terrorists in Iraq and elsewhere.

The debate came on legislation that provides $122 billion to fund the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan as well as domestic priorities such relief to hurricane victims. (AP)

Another Victory For Nagging Guilt

A $1 parking ticket in Waukesha, Wis., from 1980 has been paid off, after the offender sent the payment along with a $3 late fee to police — without giving a name. "It's kind of cool that someone took the time to take care of their obligation after 26 years," police Capt. Mike Babet told the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel for a story posted online Monday. "Maybe their conscience got to them." The signature on the money order used to pay for the ticket is not legible, and the return address reads: "Someone who keeps way too many old papers way too long." The envelope carried a Chicago postmark. (AP)

Luckily, He Kept All His Illegal Receipts

A Dutch court has added a new item to the list of activities eligible for tax relief: drug-running. Judges in the city of Arnhem have declared that a fisherman convicted of smuggling drugs could deduct the cost of buying and shipping hashish to the Netherlands from his income on his tax return. The smuggler, whose identity was not released, appealed to the Arnhem court after being slapped with a $4.4 million tax bill. Because he had been convicted only of drug-running and not trading in drugs, the court ruled he could deduct the cost of buying and transporting the drugs on his tax form. (AP)

Jabba the Toad

An environmental group said Tuesday it had captured a "monster" toad the size of a small dog. With a body the size of a football and weighing nearly 2 pounds, the toad is among the largest specimens ever captured in Australia, according to Frogwatch coordinator Graeme Sawyer. "It's huge, to put it mildly," he said. "The biggest toads are usually females, but this one was a rampant male. ... I would hate to meet his big sister." Frogwatch, which is dedicated to wiping out a toxic toad species that has killed countless Australian animals, picked up the 15-inch-long cane toad during a raid on a pond outside the northern city of Darwin late Monday. # Mueller Backs Patriot Act Authority

FBI director defends agency as lawmakers talk of ending powers

WASHINGTON | FBI Director Robert Mueller struggled Tuesday to convince skeptical senators that — despite recent abuses — the FBI should retain Patriot Act authority to gather telephone, e-mail and financial records without a judge's approval.

"The statute did not cause the errors. The FBI's implementation did," the FBI chief told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But Committee Chairman Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., served notice: "We're going to be re-examining the broad authorities we granted the FBI in the Patriot Act." House Judiciary committee members delivered a similar message last week.

The Senate panel's ranking Republican, Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania, went further: "The question arises as to whether any director can handle this job and whether the bureau itself can handle the job."

Grim-faced and sometimes even looking pained, Mueller testified at the panel's second hearing into a Justice Department inspector general's report this month that revealed abuses in the FBI's use of documents called national security letters to gather data.

Reviewing headquarters files and four of 56 FBI field offices, Inspector General Glenn Fine found 48 violations of law or presidential directives from 2003 to 2005. He estimates there may be up to 3,000 unidentified or unreported violations throughout the FBI.

Mueller said he had instituted procedures for issuing these letters. "What I did not do and should have done is put in a compliance program to be sure those procedures were followed," he added.

He is now devising a compliance program and has ordered an audit to determine the extent of the problem and to see whether any agents should be disciplined.

"We are committed to demonstrating to the committee, the Congress and the American people that we will correct the deficiencies," Mueller said. (AP)

Report: Mammograms Not Enough

Women at risk for breast cancer urged to get annual MRIs

ATLANTA | More than 2 million U.S. women — those with an unusually high risk of developing breast cancer — should get annual MRIs as well as mammograms, the American Cancer Society advises in new guidelines.

And a new medical study suggests that all women newly diagnosed with breast cancer should get MRIs, too. The scans revealed cancers in the opposite breast that were missed by ordinary mammograms in 3 percent of these cancer survivors.

The guidelines are directed at symptomless women who have a mutation in the BRCA1 or BRCA2 genes; those who were treated for Hodgkin's disease; or those with a strong family history of the disease, such as women with two or more close relatives who had breast or ovarian cancer or who have a close relative who developed breast cancer before age 50. # Pet Death Claims Growing

Group finds 471 cases of kidney failure since recall of tainted food

ALBANY, N.Y. | At least 471 cases of pet kidney failure have been reported in the 10 days since a nationwide recall of dog and cat food, and about a fifth of those pets have died, a veterinarians' information service said Tuesday.

The maker of the recalled pet food has confirmed the deaths of only 16 pets.

Paul Pion, founder of the Veterinary Information Network — which counts 30,000 veterinarians and veterinary students as members — said Tuesday the number of reported kidney failure cases had already grown higher than the 471, but he said he wouldn't have an updated tally for a few days.

Of the reported cases, he said, 104 animals have died.

Pion, a California veterinarian, said only 10 percent to 20 percent of the people who belong to his Web site had responded to a request for information.

Pebbles, a Yorkshire terrier, died last week while being treated for kidney failure that developed after she ate some of the contaminated pet food from Menu Foods.

"If we're only getting 10 percent of the veterinarians, you can do the math," he said.

Scientists at the New York State Food Laboratory last week identified the rodent poison aminopterin as the likely culprit in the scare that prompted the recall of 95 brands of "cuts and gravy" style dog and cat food by the maker, Menu Foods.

Some pets that ate the recalled brands suffered kidney failure, and the company has confirmed the deaths of 15 cats and one dog. Aminopterin, a derivative of folic acid that was once used to induce abortions, can cause kidney damage in dogs and cats. (AP)

Torture Suit Against Rumsfeld Dismissed

Prisoners wanted former defense official put on trial for abuses

WASHINGTON | Former Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld cannot be tried on allegations of torture in overseas military prisons, a federal judge said Tuesday in a case he described as "lamentable."

U.S. District Judge Thomas F. Hogan threw out a lawsuit brought on behalf of nine former prisoners in Iraq and Afghanistan. He said Rumsfeld cannot be held personally responsible for actions taken in connection with his government job.

The lawsuit contends the prisoners were beaten, suspended upside down from the ceiling by chains, urinated on, shocked, sexually humiliated, burned, locked inside boxes and subjected to mock executions.

Lawyers for the American Civil Liberties Union and Human Rights First had argued that Rumsfeld and top military officials disregarded warnings about the abuse and authorized the use of illegal interrogation tactics that violated the rights of prisoners.

No matter how appealing it might seem to use the courts to correct allegations of severe abuses of power, Hogan wrote, government officials are immune from such lawsuits. Additionally, foreigners held overseas are not normally afforded U.S. constitutional rights. (AP)

Snow Faced With Recurring Cancer

Press secretary says he will fight disease with chemotherapy

WASHINGTON | The colon cancer that Tony Snow successfully battled two years ago has returned and spread to the presidential spokesman's liver and elsewhere, the White House said Tuesday.

President Bush, making a brief statement to reporters in the Rose Garden, struck an optimistic tone that echoed how aides said Snow was feeling. The president spoke with Snow early Tuesday, and said he looks forward to the day that his spokesman "comes back to the White House and briefs the press corps on the decisions that I'm making."

Snow, 51, had his entire colon

White House press secretary Tony Snow is in the hospital recovering from surgery. Doctors discovered Snow's cancer has returned and has spread to his liver.

removed in 2005 and underwent six months of chemotherapy after being diagnosed with Stage 3 colon cancer. A small growth was discovered last year in his lower right pelvic area — about the same region where the original cancer began — and, after months of monitoring, tests showed that it had grown slightly. It was removed Monday.

Doctors determined the growth was cancerous, and also found during the surgery that his cancer had metastasized, or spread, to his liver, White House spokeswoman Dana Perino said.

She said Snow is comfortable and feeling fine after his surgery and has pledged to aggressively fight the disease with an as-yet-to-be-determined chemotherapy treatment course. He will be in the hospital recovering from the surgery for about a week.

"He said he's going to beat it again," Perino said in an emotional morning briefing with White House reporters. "When I talked to him, he was in very good spirits." (AP)

Tillman's Family Rejects Findings Of Military Probe

SAN JOSE, CALIF. | The family of Pat Tillman, who gave up a lucrative career playing professional football to join the U.S. Army after the Sept. 11 attacks, rejected the military's findings on his killing by fellow American soldiers in Afghanistan.

His family called for congressional investigations into what they see as broad malfeasance and a cover-up of the incident.

"Perhaps subpoenas are necessary to elicit candor and accuracy from the military," Tillman's family said in a statement Monday.

The men who shot Tillman have always claimed the incident was a terrible mistake in the fog of war, and the Army officially agreed Monday, declining to press charges.

Blair Warns Iran on Crew Standoff

Proof captive sailors were in Iraqi waters could be made public

LONDON | Prime Minister Tony Blair warned Tuesday that his government could make public evidence that a British navy crew was in Iraqi waters when it was captured by Iran, saying he was prepared to take the standoff to a "different phase" if diplomacy fails to win their release.

Iran said the 15 British sailors and marines were being treated well, but refused to say where they were being held, or rule out the possibility that they could be brought to trial for allegedly entering Iranian waters.

"I hope we manage to get them to realize they have to release them," Blair said in an interview with GMTV. "If not, then this will move into a different phase."

Blair's spokesman said the prime minister was not hinting either at the possible expulsion of Iranian diplomats or military action, but that Britain may have to make public evidence proving the Britons were seized in Iraqi — not Iranian — waters, if there is no swift release of the sailors.

Blair

Releasing such evidence could have "an upside and a downside" because it could show the Iranian ships strayed into Iraqi territory, the spokesman said on condition of anonymity. Britain and the U.S. have said the sailors and marines were intercepted Friday after they completed a search of a civilian vessel in the Iraqi part of the Shatt al-Arab waterway, where the border between Iran and Iraq has been disputed for centuries.

There were fears in Britain that the fate of the 15 could get caught up in the tensions between Iran and the West, including the dispute over Iran's nuclear program and accusations of Iranian help to Shiite militants in Iraq. DAVID STRINGER (AP)

Truck Bombs Kill 63 in Iraq Violence

BAGHDAD | Two truck bombs shattered markets in Tal Afar on Tuesday, killing at least 63 people and wounding dozens in the second assault in four days on a predominantly Shiite Muslim city hit by a resurgence in violence a year after it was held up as a symbol of U.S. success.

After the bombings, suspected Sunni insurgents tried to ambush ambulances carrying the injured out of the northwestern city but were driven off by police gunfire, Iraqi authorities said.

The carnage was the worst bloodshed in a day of attacks across Iraq.

A major Sunni Arab insurgent group reported its military leader was slain outside Baghdad, an assault likely to deepen an increasingly bloody rift between al-Qaeda in Iraq and opponents of the terror group.

In Baghdad, a U.S. soldier and an American working as a U.S. government contractor were killed by a rocket attack on the heavily guarded Green Zone, U.S. officials said. Another contract worker suffered serious wounds. A soldier also was wounded.

U.S. soldiers, meanwhile, foiled two suicide truck bombers trying to attack their base in a small town 50 miles west of Baghdad and killed as many as 15 attackers, the military said. KIM GAMEL (AP)

Don't Drive And Smoke, Court Says

Judges in Indian city of New Delhi impose unusual smoking ban

NEW DELHI | Smoking poses serious health risks. So does driving in New Delhi.

And combining the two is deadly, according to two New Delhi judges who have barred smoking at the wheel, officials said Tuesday, apparently the first such ban in the world.

Declaring "New Delhi roads dangerous to human life," the city's High Court on Monday imposed a slew of new measures aimed at deterring habitually bad drivers, including the smoking ban and a prohibition on using mobile phones while behind the wheel.

The ruling, goes into effect April 9 and only covers New Delhi, a city of 14 million people.

Those caught smoking while driving will have to pay a $32 fine, a large sum by local standards. The same fines apply to using a mobile phone and the less well-defined offense of "dangerous driving." (AP)

Gaza Sewage Flood Kills 5

Incident highlights Palestinian need for better infrastructure

UMM NASER, GAZA STRIP | A huge sewage reservoir in the northern Gaza Strip collapsed Tuesday, killing five people in a frothing cascade of waste and mud that swamped a village and highlighted the desperate need to upgrade Gaza's overburdened infrastructure.

Rescue crews and Hamas gunmen rushed to the area to search for people feared buried under the sewage and mud. Dressed in wet-suits, they paddled boats through the layer of foam floating on the green and brown rivers of waste. The noxious smell of waste and dead animals hung in the air.

In one house, everything from the television to the sink was covered in muck.

"We lost everything. Everything was covered by the flood. It's a disaster," said Amina Afif, 65, whose shack was destroyed.

The existing treatment plant in northern Gaza stores waste in seven holding basins. With the burgeoning population producing nearly four times as much waste as the plant could treat, officials have put overflow sewage in the nearby dunes, the U.N. said.

On Tuesday morning, an earth embankment around one of seven basins collapsed, sending a wall of sewage crashing into the neighboring village of Umm Naser.

The wave killed two women in their 70s, two toddlers and a teenage girl, and injured 35 other people, hospital officials said. (AP)

Studying the Antidepressant Effects of Sleep Deprivation

Sleep deprivation has rapid & brief antidepressant effects in some depressed people. NIMH is exploring how a drug that mimics the effects of sleep deprivation in the brain, may also bring about a rapid antidepressant response in people who are depressed. Understanding how this works may help us understand depression and design better antidepressants. Study includes multiple overnight stays & free sleep evaluations to rule out sleep disorders. NIMH is seeking people ages 18-60 with depression who:

- Are free of other serious medical conditions
- Do not have any sleep disorders

Nun Key to Papal Sainthood Push

Mystery sister claims prayers to John Paul II cured her of disease

ROME | It's one of the Roman Catholic Church's closely guarded secrets: the identity of the French nun whose testimony of an inexplicable cure from Parkinson's disease is likely to be accepted as the miracle the Vatican needs to beatify Pope John Paul II.

The nun, who says she was cured of Parkinson's after she and her community of nuns prayed to John Paul, is coming to Rome for ceremonies Monday marking the second anniversary of the pontiff's death and the closure of a church investigation into his life. The probe was ordered after chants of "Santo Subito!" or "Sainthood

The faithful raise their hands to Pope John Paul II in August 2003. A French nun's recovery from Parkinson's disease may prove pivotal in the bid to make the late pope a saint.

Now!" erupted during John Paul's 2005 funeral.

While a few details about the nun are expected to be released during the visit, it remains to be seen whether she will ever come forward publicly, leaving the faithful with only an anonymous description of her cure from a disease John Paul himself lived with for years.

The Vatican's saint-making process requires that John Paul's life and writings be studied for its virtues — an investigation that will end with ceremonies Monday. In addition, the Vatican requires that a miracle attributed to his intercession be confirmed.

Monsignor Slawomir Oder, the Polish prelate spearheading John Paul's beatification cause, announced last year that the case of the French nun was the most compelling he had found and would be forwarded onto the Vatican.

At a news conference Tuesday, Oder joked that there would be "thousands of nuns" attending Monday's ceremony — including the sister in question.

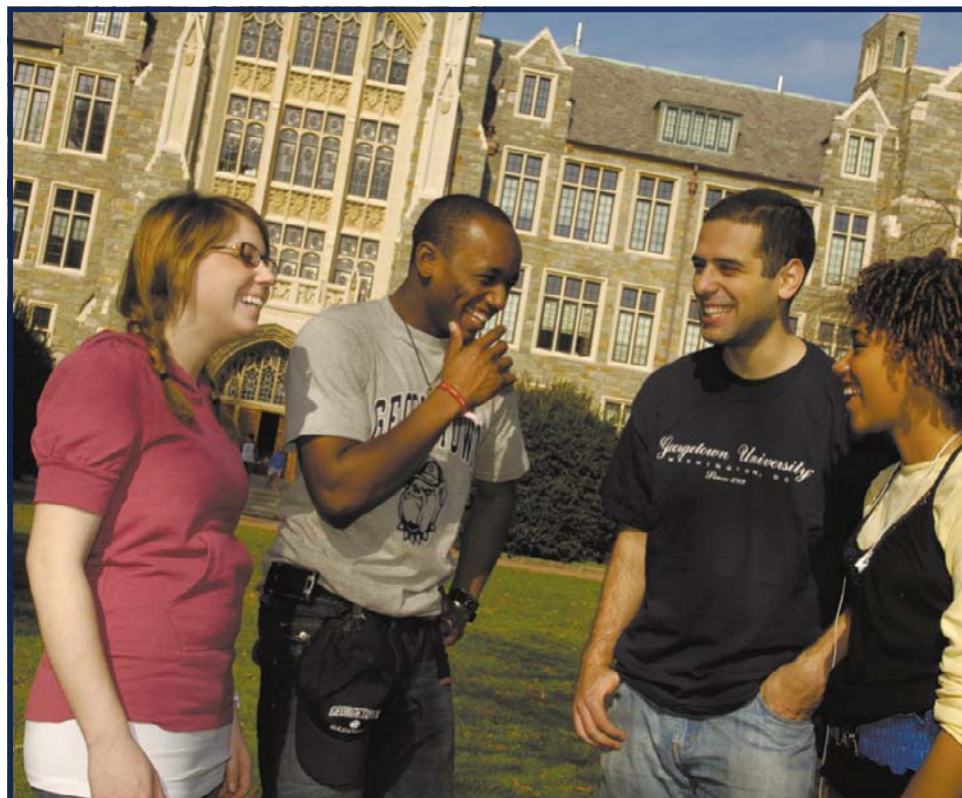

"I leave it to your investigations and diligence to figure out which one is the nun," he quipped. (AP)

Top Zimbabwe Politician Urges Election Boycott

HARARE, ZIMBABWE | The main opposition leader announced Tuesday he will boycott presidential elections scheduled next year unless the poll is carried out under a new democratic constitution that ensures they are free and fair.

Opposition leader Morgan Tsvangirai, addressing mourners at a memorial service for an opposition activist fatally shot by police March 11, said a free election was the right of Zimbabweans.

"We will never go into an election that is predetermined," Tsvangirai said, vowing to continue anti-government protests. The opposition accuses President Robert Mugabe of rigging all polls since 2000 with the help of electoral laws and other provisions favoring his party. (AP)

Consumers Wary On New Spending

Confidence index falls amid rising gas prices, dropping home values

NEW YORK | Americans sent up a warning signal in March that rising gas prices, falling home values and a volatile stock market could hurt spending in the coming months, a widely watched index showed on Tuesday.

The New York-based Conference Board said its Consumer Confidence Index fell to 107.2, down from the revised 111.2 in February. Analysts had expected a reading of 109. The March index was the lowest since November 2006, when the reading was 105.3.

"Apprehension about the short-term future has suddenly cast a cloud over consumers' confidence," said Lynn Franco, director of the Conference Board Consumer Research Center, in a statement.

Economists closely monitor consumer confidence because consumer spending accounts for two-thirds of all U.S. economic activity. Confidence had been climbing, helped by consumers' faith in the job market.

Joel Naroff, president of Naroff Economic Advisors, said that a one-month dip in consumer confidence after a four-month climb doesn't mean that shoppers are suddenly going to stop spending, but he said it is a "warning sign." (AP)

An attempt to require paper voting records in Maryland elections was dealt a blow Monday when the state Senate moved to drop the idea. # Webb Denies Giving Pistol to Aide

Assistant arrested for carrying loaded gun enters not-guilty plea

WASHINGTON | Sen. Jim Webb said a senior aide who was arrested after trying to carry a loaded pistol into a Senate office building did so "completely inadvertently."

Webb, D-Va., spoke to reporters Tuesday at the U.S. Capitol just before his aide was arraigned in District of Columbia Superior Court on charges of carrying a pistol without a license and carrying an unregistered firearm and unregistered ammunition.

Phillip Thompson entered a not-guilty plea through his attorney, Richard Gardner, and was released on his own recognizance.

Phillip Thompson, center, an aide to Sen. Jim Webb, emerges from D.C. Superior Court after appearing on gun charges Tuesday. Webb denied giving him the gun.

Thompson was arrested Monday morning when he entered the Russell Senate Office Building with a loaded pistol and two other loaded magazines in a briefcase that he placed on an X-ray machine, according to court documents. Thompson told the officer at the building's entrance that the weapon belonged to Webb.

At a news conference Tuesday, Webb called the incident "one of those very unfortunate situations."

But he told reporters he did not give Thompson the gun and refused to confirm or deny whether the gun was his, saying he couldn't comment further because of the pending legal matter. "I have never carried a gun in the Capitol complex and I did not give the gun to Phillip Thompson," Webb said. LUBNA TAKRURI (AP)

FREDERICK, MD. | The mother of four dead children remained missing Tuesday as a portrait of the struggling immigrant family emerged.

Police were awaiting complete autopsy results that they said could help explain the deaths of the children and their father, Pedro Rodriguez, 28, whose remains were found Monday. Police found the children — girls Elsa, 9, Vanessa, 4, and Carena, 1, and 3-year-old boy Angel — in their beds with sheets and blankets pulled over their heads.

Preliminary autopsy results ruled out shooting and stabbing as the cause of death for the children, Lt. Thomas Chase said.

He said poisoning and suffocation are possibilities, and that police will learn more after the state medical examiner's office completes toxicology studies that could take at least a week.

Authorities were looking for the mother, Deysi M. Benitez, 25, in a search that Chase said could become international. DAVID DISHNEAU (AP)

Pop Not Punk

Good Charlotte is back to confound with the catchy "Revival"

BROS | Many acts avoid reading reviews of their albums for fear one sour critic will reduce their efforts to rubble. Good Charlotte's Benji Madden is not one of those artists.

"I read all the reviews," he said. "I remember the first review I ever read about our band was 'They'll be gone tomorrow; they'll be gone quicker than they came.'"

Seven years and more than 9 million albums later, pop punkers Good Charlotte are still standing and proudly proclaiming a return with "Good Morning Revival."

"Ben said something a couple of weeks ago that I thought was really interesting," said vocalist Joel of Benji, his twin brother and the group's guitarist. "It was, 'I don't know if we're the most rock 'n' roll band in pop or the most pop band in rock 'n' roll.'"

Indeed, Good Charlotte straddles the line. The Madden brothers have all the requisite rocker markings: they sport multiple tattoos and piercings, they dress in all black, they chain-smoke Camels; but their music and unfailing politeness give away their pop leanings. "You couldn't really put us in a category right now, we're kind of out there on our own," said Joel.

"Good Morning Revival" celebrates that refusal to be pigeonholed. The first single, "The River," is straight-ahead rock, while "Dance Floor Anthem" is an instantly infectious toe-tapper and "Keep Your Hands Off My Girl" would sound at home on the latest album from the Killers or the Gorillaz. With "Revival," the twins felt a small reinvention was in order "to keep ourselves interested," said Benji. "We've been in this band since we were 16."

Additionally, Good Charlotte, which also includes bassist Paul Thomas, guitarist Billy Martin and drummer Dean Butterworth, needed to right itself after 2004's "The Chronicles of Life & Death" sold only 1.1 million copies in the United States, well below the 3.4 million units moved by 2002's "The Young and the Hopeless." But the Maddens say they never felt "Chronicles" was anything other than a success since it expanded the band's international audience. "The only time I was disappointed was when someone told me it was a failure," Joel said dryly.

Paradoxically, in order to move forward the band looked to its past by enlisting Don Gilmore, who produced their self-titled 2000 debut. From their past relationship with Gilmore, they knew he was no yes-man and he quickly reminded them of that fact. The Maddens played Gilmore 40 new songs and he rejected every tune outright except for "Keep Your Hands Off My Girl."

Gilmore decided the twins needed to get away from the distractions of Los Angeles and focus solely on the music. They headed to Vancouver and "the first day they wrote a great song, and we were, like, 'OK, that wasn't so hard,'" Gilmore said. "Every day yielded a song."

Gilmore feels the Maddens lock into something special creatively: "When just the two of them write, it's a fast, quick thing. It's not labored over." MELINDA NEWMAN (AP)

But the 'Happy Feet' DVD isn't singing & dancing with extras

TUXEDOED BIRDS | Australian George Miller's quirky dancing-and-singing penguin film, "Happy Feet," won the Oscar last month for best animated feature, beating the favorite, "Cars."

But the extras on the digital edition won't be winning any awards for creativity. The best added feature is a vintage Technicolor cartoon from the 1930s, "I Love to Singa," about a baby owl who wants to sing swing, much to the dismay of his classically trained parents.

Other bonuses include two short new animated sequences,

"Happy Feet" is still joyous, even if the DVD version doesn't offer many extras.

"A Happy Feet Moment" (literally) and the bittersweet "Mumble Meets a Blue Whale," featuring the voice of the late "Crocodile Hunter" Steve Irwin, as an albatross, with an introduction by Miller. Rounding out the disc is a short but concise dancing lesson with Savion Glover, who provided the dancing for the little hero, Mumble.

Cruel Old Stagolee

The legendary tale of Stagger Lee gets a graphic treatment

WILD WEST | Of the numerous songs written about "Stag" Lee Shelton, there is one fact that is not contested in any of them: Shelton shot Billy Lyons at a bar in St. Louis in 1895.

Now here's where the facts get dicey. Some songs claim Lyons was shot because of a Stetson hat. Some allege that Lyons was a crooked gambler — and you know what happens when people get cheated out of money.

Derek McCulloch, author of the graphic novel "Stagger Lee," has dived headfirst into the legend of Shelton, looking for truth from the exploits of a man whose life has been chronicled by myriad musicians, ranging from Mississippi John Hurt to Bob Dylan to Nick Cave. Samuel L. Jackson even takes a stab at Shelton in the film "Black Snake Moan."

After all the research, McCulloch — who will be signing the graphic novel along with artist Shepherd Hendrix at Big Planet Comics in Bethesda, Md., on Wednesday — has found what he believes is the real reason for the killing: politics and alcohol.

"From everything that I've read, I go with the political interpretation that they were men representing pretty bitterly opposed political organizations, and they had some sort of argument of a political nature — eyewitnesses said so," McCulloch said. "It escalated to the point of killing."

McCulloch first remembers hearing the Stagger Lee tale when he was 8 years old from Lloyd Price's song version, but it wasn't until he read Greil Marcus' essay collection "Mystery Train" that Lee really started to percolate in his mind. "When I read that it was a true story, it really interested me," McCulloch said. "I didn't know that much — I don't think I even knew the lyrics to the song at that point."

McCulloch was taken by the idea of all the different versions of the song and how there was a sort of mythology springing up about Shelton while he was still alive. He started to read all he could about Shelton.

The book spends a considerable amount of time exploring the possible scenarios in the various songs and mines facts from the interpretations, but it is also part court procedural and it offers a glimpse into African-American life in the Midwest during the turn of the century.

When it came to writing the book, however, there was still a dearth of facts, which places the book strictly in the historical fiction section on the bookshelf.

"It kind of makes it easier to write fiction, actually, when there is little known about [the subject]," McCulloch said.

Special Report solves the “My home isn’t selling” problem

WASHINGTON METRO – A “Special Report” explodes what its author exposes as “The myth of slow home sales.” In fact, the Report explains, in clear and plain English, how a home owner who wants to sell can not only count on a sale within 120 days but can be guaranteed that the sale will occur.

The Report proves its accuracy by quoting specific local instances in which the technique it describes has sold homes time after time, quickly, efficiently, and at a favorable price.

The author of the report, noted realtor Frank Sanya, has made numerous appearances on both television and radio.

Mr. Sanya states that the Report represents the compendium of his many years of real estate experience and can be of substantial value to homeowners, especially those whose homes have been on the market unsold for a considerable period of time. The author emphasizes that although he does not accept every listing, by following the Report’s procedures he accomplishes a sale in every instance in which he is the broker of record.

The secret, says the Report, is a combination of traits and procedures that consistently result in a successful sale. For a free copy of the Report, go to a private but available Web site – www.WantItSoldNow.com.

'The Boomer Century' is yet another look at Gen Overexposed

ENCORE | “The Boomer Century” (9 p.m., PBS) takes yet another look at the most-talked-about generation in history. It is also the most broadly defined and overgeneralized group of people of all time.

As host, psychologist Ken Dychtwald proclaims boomers arrived in such huge numbers that they could not help but change their economy and society. The generation that postponed parenthood during the Depression and World

NO TIE + SUIT = BOOMER: Host Ken Dychtwald goes over the same old stuff.

War II began procreating with abandon, and between 1946 and 1964 more than 78 million babies were born.

Of course, "Century" concentrates most of its attention on and formulates virtually all of its generalizations about the oldest boomers, those born in the late 1940s, shaped by the 1950s and who were teens and young adults in the 1960s. And they are just hitting their 60s.

But the vast bulk of boomers are younger, and some have just hit their mid-40s. The oldest boomers had nuclear families and the Beatles as their formative influences; the youngest had the energy crisis and the Bay City Rollers. How can you lump together people with such vastly different experiences?

CALL OF THE WILD: Once threatened with extinction, the Royal Bengal Tiger survives in Corbett National Park in India.

Eye of the Tiger

Indian national park offers its visitors the thrill of the hunt

SAFARI | I would rather be on an elephant than in front of one.

It's no fun when a wild tusker is lumbering toward you, and you are trapped in a Jeep with no choice but to drive in reverse on a muddy, twisting, hilly road flanked by a jungle on the left and a gurgling river to the right.

The heart-stopping encounter with an irritated elephant occurred barely 30 minutes after we had driven into Corbett National Park — India's finest tiger reserve in the foothills of the Himalayas — in search of the big cats.

Still, Rajiv Bhartari, the director of Corbett Tiger Reserve, said, we are better off being atop an elephant while in the forest. "Besides, that's the best way to see a tiger," he said.

And nothing can be truer.

Corbett National Park is no Serengeti or Kruger. Unlike those African parks, you won't see hordes of animals under shady trees or watering holes. But tracking and spotting a tiger in the Indian jungle with an experienced guide turned out to be every bit as thrilling as homing in on a pair of cheetahs in the African grasslands.

You won't see hordes of animals under shady trees or watering holes.

Corbett National Park, located in the northern Indian state of Uttarakhand, epitomizes India's success in saving the endangered Royal Bengal Tiger, the magnificent yellow-and-black striped cat found only in Asia.

A victim of hunting, poaching and human encroachment, the tigers were threatened with extinction when the global Project Tiger was launched in Corbett National Park on April 1, 1973. At the time, the tiger population in the park was 44. Across India, only about 1,800 existed, down from 40,000 at the turn of the 20th century.

Under Bhartari's stewardship, the tiger population in Corbett has increased to about 175. Overall, there are about 3,600 tigers in India, but other national parks have not fared as well as Corbett, and some reserves have no tigers left.

"Right now, what you see is a glorious Corbett. We have never seen anything like it. [Tiger] sightings are becoming more common," Bhartari said in an interview at the Dhikala forest lodge.

The accommodations in Dhikala lodge are basic but comfortable and adequate. Only vegetarian food is available because meat leftovers and their scent attract carnivores.

Crawford Is the 'Perfect Teammate'

Coach says the junior is, without question, the leader of the Hoyas

HOYAS HOOPS | Jeff Green, exercising his usual modesty, said 7-foot-2 center Roy Hibbert is the leader of Final Four-bound Georgetown.

Hibbert said without a doubt that it's Green, who happens to be the Big East player of the year.

When asked to break the tie, coach John Thompson III also didn't hesitate. His answer: none of the above.

Not Hibbert nor Green nor even Jonathan Wallace, the savvy point guard. Not the other starting guard, Jessie Sapp. Not emerging freshman DaJuan Summers.

Then perhaps it could be Patrick Ewing Jr., who leads the team in enthusiasm and carried the East Regional trophy off the bus when the team arrived back on campus Monday.

Nope. The coach said the team's leader is junior swingman Tyler Crawford, who has started one game in his college career and this season is averaging a modest 2.1 points per game.

"You get to see just a snippet of our team," Thompson said Tuesday. "You see us on the court 36 times, Junior swingman Tyler Crawford has seen limited playing time this season and is averaging just 2.1 points, but the Hoyas know he's, without question, the team's leader.

naturally you make judgments about the team and who the leaders are and who the leaders aren't. But that's just 36 days out of the year. The other 320-plus, he's someone that day-in, day-out, in the locker room, in the dorms, is the leader of this team. It's his commitment, it's his work ethic, it's his belief in how we're doing it."

Crawford is one-fourth of the recruiting class that has turned Georgetown around and will lead the Hoyas (30-6) into Saturday's national semifinal against Ohio State (34-3). Crawford, Green, Hibbert and Wallace arrived as freshman during Thompson's first year, determined to restore the Hoyas to their former glory.

The other three were instant starters, while Crawford bided his time by working as the encouraging voice behind the scenes.

"He's never quit," said Ewing, a junior who transferred from Indiana. "He's the one in practice telling us, 'You guys have got to go hard.' 'You've got to do this.' 'You've got to do that.' That's why Coach made him the captain of this team. People are always talking about me standing up and running out into the huddles, but Tyler's right there with me. Just everything he does, he's almost the perfect teammate."

Pearl Will Stay With Tennessee

Coach was contacted by Iowa but says he wants to remain a Vol

COLLEGE BASKETBALL | Bruce Pearl says he's happy at Tennessee and won't consider leaving now.

The men's basketball coach was contacted Tuesday by Iowa athletic director Gary Barta, who got clearance the night before from Tennessee athletic director Mike Hamilton to talk to Pearl, a former Iowa assistant.

Pearl told Barta he was not leaving Tennessee, and then he wanted fans to know.

"I'm putting it out there just as fast as I can because I don't want it to be a concern of our fans, and I want to demonstrate my loyalty and my commitment to this program. I appreciate very much being here, so I don't want them to worry about me going anywhere," Pearl told The Associated Press on Tuesday. "This is where I want to be. I want to be here as long as they'll be happy with me here."

In only two years, Pearl has turned around a mediocre program, delivering two straight appearances in the NCAA tournament and the Volunteers' first time in the round of 16 since 2000.

In a statement issued by the school, Pearl expressed appreciation for support from fans, administrators and other coaches. (AP)

Phelps Destroys 'Incredible' Record

U.S. swimmers break 3 records, but none quite like Phelps' 200 free

SWIMMING | On a golden night in the pool for the Americans, no one was better than Michael Phelps.

He became the first man in history to go under 1 minute, 44 seconds in the 200-meter freestyle at the world championships, breaking Ian Thorpe's revered world record on the home turf of the retired star.

"That was probably the single most incredible record in the books," said American backstroke Aaron Peirsol, who lowered his own world record in the 100 back later in the night. "He put it to rest."

The crowd at Rod Laver Arena had barely caught its breath from Phelps' spectacular effort when five minutes later American Natalie Coughlin broke her own world mark in the 100 backstroke.

And that was just the beginning for the Americans, who won four of five golds and set three world records.

Phelps started it with a bang. He defeated Pieter van den Hoogenband of the Netherlands by a whopping 2.42 seconds in their first duel since the 2004 Olympics, when the duo, along with Thorpe, made up the so-called "Race of the Century."

This time, the 21-year-old American led all the way and touched the wall in 1:43.86. Thorpe's mark was 1:44.06, set at the 2001 world meet in Fukuoka, Japan.

"I thought this 200 freestyle record by Ian would last for 10, maybe 20 years," Van den Hoogenband said. "I was also next to him [Thorpe] when he set that record. But with somebody swimming this fast, I was more a spectator than a big challenge for Phelps."

It was Phelps' first individual gold of the meet. He also led off the victorious 400 free relay Sunday.

"This is the most impressive team I've ever been on," Peirsol said. "What Michael did was absolutely incredible and certainly Natalie followed up well. I had to do something." BETH HARRIS (AP)

Mayo Moving on From Prep Drama

Basketball wunderkind is heading to Southern Cal. after difficult year

HIGH SCHOOL HOOPS | O.J. Mayo is as comfortable in the arena's hallways as on the court, signing T-shirts for ballboys and autographs for an opponent's cheerleaders.

Admirers like those at the recent West Virginia state high school tournament followed Mayo through a remarkable but troubled senior season at Huntington High School that included a three-game suspension, two losses and a drug charge — and ended with a championship.

"We had a lot of bumps and bruises, a lot of ups and down. This most definitely wasn't an easy ride," Mayo said. "But we stuck together like a family and we finished it off well."

After a trip to Louisville, Ky., to play in the McDonald's All-American game on Wednesday, Mayo is off to Southern California in the fall.

It's a big step for the 6-foot-5 Mayo, who has been closely followed since he was recruited to play high school ball as a seventh-grader.

While his popularity attracted more TV cameras and bigger venues, some of the extra attention shed unwanted light on some problems. Mayo was ejected from a Jan. 26 game with rival Capital and served a three-game suspension after he bumped a referee.

O.J. Mayo averaged 28 points per game and was West Virginia player of the year.

Earlier this month, Mayo was cited for marijuana possession, but the charge was dropped after another man took full responsibility.

And there's already plenty of speculation about whether he'll jump to the NBA after one college season.

"I'll see where I stand starting with college workouts and competing with different guys this summer," Mayo said. "I just want to be the greatest player I can be and be an NBA Hall of Famer one day." (AP)

'Thad Five' Expected a Final Four

Since Day 1, talented group of freshmen believed they could win

NCAA TOURNAMENT | Before Greg Oden and Mike Conley Jr. even played a game for Ohio State, their coach handed them a Final Four pamphlet.

Now, the sensational freshmen — part of a group known as the "Thad Five" — get to see what it's really all about. The Buckeyes will be there to play Georgetown on Saturday.

"That was, hopefully, great motivation for them," coach Thad Matta said. "I'm sure they forgot about it 10 minutes after the meeting, as kids normally do."

That Final Four information was a small part of a manual each player received during the first team meeting.

"I believed [Matta] the first day I was on campus, when he was recruiting us," Conley said. He showed us the same type of deal and a video of the Final Four. And that definitely stuck in my head through the whole summer."

Oden, the 7-foot All-American who is Ohio State's leading scorer and rebounder, and Conley were high school teammates for three straight Indiana state championships. Now they're only two wins from Ohio State's first title since 1960.

They were part of Ohio State's most touted recruiting classes, along with David Lighty and Daequan Cook and junior college transfer Othello Hunter.

The "Thad Five" blended nicely with a group that included junior Jamar Butler and seniors Ron Lewis and Ivan Harris. Butler was the only returning starter from last year's team that won the league title and 26 games before losing to Georgetown in the second round of the tourney.

"They've had a tremendous impact," Matta said of the new guys. "Maybe unlike anybody's ever had before." STEPHEN HAWKINS (AP)

Heat Back in First Without Wade

With its star injured, Miami overtakes the Wizards in Southeast

NBA | When Dwyane Wade dislocated his left shoulder nearly five weeks ago, there was considerable sentiment around the NBA that the Miami Heat would be hard-pressed to simply make the playoffs.

That sort of talk isn't happening now. Wade's still hurt, yet somehow, the defending NBA champions have clawed their way into sole possession of first place in the Southeast Division for the first time all season.

Miami (38-32) got there Monday night, when it beat Atlanta and Washington (37-32) lost at Utah to fall a half-game behind the Heat. That series of events also pushed Miami to third in the Eastern Conference standings, a spot it'll seek to keep on Wednesday when a three-game road swing opens in Toronto.

"We've got something in front of us right now," Heat coach Pat Riley said. "They all mean something now, and I just hope our guys will come with a sense of urgency."

Since Wade hurt his shoulder, the Heat typically have brought the type of urgency Riley is seeking.

A shoulder injury has sidelined Dwyane Wade, but the Heat has been winning.

When Washington won at Detroit on Jan. 30, the Wizards were eight games ahead of Miami in the standings. Miami won later that night to get within 7 1/2 games, and was still six games back as of Feb. 23, two days after Wade dislocated his left shoulder.

Wade hasn't played since — he's rehabbing and hoping to be back next month — but the margin between the teams has vanished.

The Heat are 12-4 since Feb. 23, the Wizards 6-11.

When the three-game road trip ends in Detroit on Sunday, a second matchup with Toronto — the Atlantic Division leader also vying for the No. 3 seed in the East — awaits in Miami on April 3. From there, the Heat will have road games in Cleveland, Boston, Charlotte and Orlando still to play, plus home matchups with Charlotte, Indiana and Boston, and an April 11 showdown with Washington that will likely go far in deciding the division title.

"I'm a firm believer that in order to be a true championship team, you have to win at home and win on the road," Heat center Shaquille O'Neal said. "I've had home-court advantage throughout, I've had the No. 4 spot, I've had the No. 5 spot. So we just have to play these next 12 games and whatever spot we get, we have to formulate a strategy and stick to the strategy." TIM REYNOLDS (AP)

Logan: I'll Be Ready For Opener

Nationals outfielder is recovering faster than he originally expected

NATIONALS | Center fielder Nook Logan wants to be in the lineup Opening Day and said he thinks he can be, despite a groin injury the team has said could sideline him through the season's first week.

"Just from how I feel today, I think I'll be ready to play this weekend — at Norfolk and RFK," Logan said, referring to the Nationals' exhibition games against the Baltimore Orioles on Friday at Norfolk, Va., and on Saturday at RFK Stadium.

Logan strained his right groin while running the bases during a spring training game last Saturday. The next day, manager Manny Acta said he expected Logan to be out at least two weeks.

"I can see why he would say that timetable," Logan said. "But it wasn't as bad as I thought at the beginning. Only I know how it feels."

If Logan did begin the season on the disabled list, the Nationals probably would shift left fielder Ryan Church to center and start rookie Kory Casto in left. (AP)

Then came another highly rated recruit, Josh Portis, who transferred from Florida in January 2006.

During spring practice, which opened Tuesday, those two quarterbacks figure to battle for the team's starting spot, left vacant by the departure of Sam Hollenbach. Sophomore Chris Turner along with redshirt freshman Jeremy Ricker are also in the mix.

"We have to find a starting quarterback, and that should be a very heated contest," Friedgen said.

Steffy enters spring practice No. 1 on the depth chart based on experience. The 6-foot-1, 209-pound Pennsylvania native has been in the system for three seasons and understands the offense better than any of the other signal callers.

Portis is a faster, more dynamic runner, blessed with exciting moves and capable of running the 40-yard dash in 4.5 seconds.

"I'm not going to put parameters on finding a quarterback. The earlier I can do it, the better, but we're just going to have to see how that plays out," Friedgen said. "I'm anxious to see who can put the ball in the end zone. Sometimes we get tied up in a lot of other stats that aren't as meaningful as that one." (AP)

Falcons general manager Rich McKay discusses the votes by NFL owners.

Owners Vote To Keep Replay Indefinitely

NFL | Replay is here to stay in the NFL. Or at least as permanently as any rule can be in pro football.

League owners voted 30-2 on Tuesday to make the video replay system a permanent officiating tool. All but three stadiums will be equipped with high-definition equipment and will be recabled before the upcoming season, at a cost of as much as $300,000 per club.

"It's a long time coming," said Atlanta Falcons general manager Rich McKay, co-chairman of the competition committee that recommended the change. "It made sense to us this year to do it. There was not really much discussion about it." (AP)

Cars

The Toyota Yaris, a surprisingly routine and undelightful subcompact, is charming and a light drinker — but, unfortunately, cheap to a fault. It costs only $11,530.

A Feeling Of Uh-Oh

Toyota shows cracks in its mighty armor with the subpar Yaris

ROAD TEST | Toyota Motor Corp. is the colossus of roads. It is, or soon will be, the largest car company in the world. Its worldwide sales are up year after year, as are its profits, as are its stock prices. In the U.S., the world's largest car market, Toyota's sales rose 12.5 percent in 2006, grabbing even more market share from the oxygen-starved domestics.

So, is this the company that can do no wrong? Not really.

I give you the Toyota Yaris, a surprisingly routine and summarily undelightful B-class subcompact that feels as mailed-in as if it had a stamp on it. Cute? Sure, in an entomological way, i.e., it looks like a bug you would pin to a corkboard.

Cheap? Oh, yes, to a fault. The $11,530 MSRP can't make room for things like a radio/CD/MP3 player, anti-lock brakes, rear-window wiper, rear fogger or split-folding rear seat.

In the midst of Toyota's triumphal march across America, the

NUTS & BOLTS

→ THE 2007 TOYOTA YARIS

$11,530

Powertrain: 1.5-liter, DOHC four-cylinder with variable valve timing, five-speed transmission, front-wheel drive | Wheelbase: 96.9 inches | Measurements: 150.6 inches long, 2,290 pounds | Horsepower: 106 at 6,000 rpm | Torque: 103 at 4,200 | 0-60 mph: 10 seconds.

Yaris seems puny. Excellence has become so routine that, when one of Toyota's cars goes so far amiss, you have to wonder whether this is the first thread of an unraveling Toyota mystique.

It isn't about bashing. Toyota is not immune to the same entropic forces that affect any large and successful organization, or nation, at the top of its game. Do you think Toyota's execs, engineers and workers are somehow smarter than those of GM? They aren't. Given time, the dialectics of decline will take hold at Toyota just as they have in Detroit.

Jamestown tries to take back fame stolen by Plymouth

The first permanent English settlement in North America has more personality than many historic attractions. Capt. John Smith, the pint-sized adventurer, left a breathless narrative of his exploits. Commerce took root here, and so did tobacco and slavery. Then there was the cannibalism.

Still, as the nation prepares to commemorate Jamestown's 400th anniversary in May, many say this swampy outpost on the James River pales in comparison to the Pilgrims' arrival at Plymouth Rock, though fans of the buckled shoe will have to wait until 2020 to mark Plymouth's fourth century.

New Englanders easily tick off why the Massachusetts settlement trumps Jamestown — the Thanksgiving feast, the Pilgrims' pure pursuit of religious freedom and the Mayflower.

Jamestown, on the other hand, "is the creation story from hell," writes historian Karen Ordahl Kupperman in a new book on the settlement, "The Jamestown Project." Conflict, disease, horrific killings and starvation — including a man dining on his pregnant wife — are all part of the back story of Jamestown, founded in 1607 as a business venture.

"It's pulp nonfiction compared to the family-friendly tale of pious Pilgrims dining with gentle Indians," author Tony Horwitz writes in reviewing a raft of new Jamestown books for The Washington Post.

But if not for Jamestown, scholars say, there may not have been a Plymouth, and we all might be speaking Spanish. The Spanish, intent on spreading Roman Catholicism, twice were turned away from the nearby Chesapeake Bay during the early years of the Protestant Jamestown settlement.

Plymouth had an edge from the start. It was a family-based settlement, unlike the male-dominated Jamestown venture; the settlers learned to co-exist with native populations for more than a half-century, unlike the Jamestown gang, who had a complicated, often violent relationship with the Powhatan Indians; and it had some powerful symbols.

have been on Vice President Dick Cheney's mind when he addressed the Virginia General Assembly in January at Jamestown.

"The history of our country did not begin on Cape Cod in 1620," Cheney said to a rousing response from legislators.

Jamestown is still revealing itself, due to archaeologist William Kelso's relentless pursuit of history, which led to the discovery in the 1990s of the footprint of the fort in which Jamestown's settlers first sought shelter. The site still gives up shards of pottery and, most recently, a tobacco seed — a crop that helped define Virginia for centuries.

Most historians say any historical reckoning of Plymouth and Jamestown is a good thing because each story has much to say about our nation.

"The Pilgrims are the ones we look on more fondly, but we draw just as much of our national spirit from the Jamestown colonists," Price said. STEVE SZKOTAK (AP)

HELLO, DOLLY II: Ian Wilmut, creator of Dolly the cloned sheep, wants Britain to restart research on cloning.

li said. "An alternative would be welcomed."

All three U.K. teams aim to get around that bottleneck by taking DNA from sick patients and fusing it with cow eggs that have had all their genetic material removed. The hope is that the human DNA will trick the eggs into thinking they're pregnant, beginning development.

After about five days of growth, the embryos would be destroyed and the stem cells extracted. The stem cells would be grown in lab, where the researchers could look for the onset of diseases, study their development and test experimental drugs.

"You can model Alzheimer's disease or Parkinson's disease in a dish," said Stephen Minger, director of the Stem Cell Laboratory at King's College in London.

Minger's request for a government license to use cow eggs instead of women's eggs to generate human embryonic stem cells stirred significant controversy in the United Kingdom last year.

U.K. researchers are required to obtain government licenses to work with human embryonic stem cells. No such restrictions exist in the U.S., though President Bush banned federal funding for most such research in this country.

Ian Wilmut, the U.K. researcher who cloned Dolly the sheep in 1997, said that if British government approves licenses for others, he'll also apply. "What has been overlooked in the cloning debate is the huge benefit it could have in drug discovery," he said.

Getting eggs from women is the bottleneck to cloning. An alternative would be welcomed."

JOSE CIBELLI,
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Scientists have been successful in a handful of interspecies cloning projects involving closely related species, including creating a wild ox called a banteng in a cow's egg.

But Cibelli, who will soon publish data in a scientific journal detailing his failure to clone monkey genes incow eggs, doubts the proposed experiments will work. "It could be that we are doing something wrong," Cibelli said. "But it looks like the farther apart the species are on the evolutionary tree, the harder it will be to clone." PAUL ELIAS (AP)

Science

Interspecies cloning could grow stem cells without human eggs

It was nearly a decade ago that Jose Cibelli plugged his own DNA into a cow's egg in a novel cloning attempt that was condemned as unethical by President Clinton and landed the Michigan State University researcher in a mess of controversy.

Even though Cibelli and his colleagues patented the so-called interspecies cloning technique, they soon abandoned the research as a failure and the uproar subsided.

Now the tempest is brewing all over again. At least three respected teams of British scientists have reig-nited the moral debate over inserting human genes into animal eggs in experiments similar to Cibelli's.

Their goal is to eliminate the need for women to donate eggs for the cloning of human embryos, a goal they say will enable them to better understand the genetic causes of many diseases and design personalized medicines.

"Getting eggs from women is the bottleneck to cloning," Cibelli

Sherlock your style with a classic coat shape

You'd be hard-pressed to find a retailer this spring that's not showering attention on what was originally intended as rain gear for English farmers and soldiers.

Trench coats are everywhere you look, rain or shine. And while classic khaki remains big, the coolest come with some individual style.

Michael Kors offers one in eyelet. J.Crew's is crinkled with flecks of stain-less steel filaments. Zac Posen makes a short, sassy satin trench, and Gwen Stefani's L.A.M.B. line has one decorated with the names of world fashion capitals in rainbow colors. (It also has a hood, which makes a lot of sense for what is essentially a raincoat.)

Burberry, which started it all with waterproof gabardine coats back in the late 1800s, has a spring trench collection that includes taffeta wrap-style coats. And, at its recent fall fashion show, Hermes previewed a $142,000 croc trench made entirely from the skin of one animal.

"Come rain or shine, day to evening, past or present, trench coats always make an outfit elegant, cool and sophisticated," said Zac Posen.

Gregg Andrews, Nordstrom fashion director, can't think of a time, place or outfit that would be a "don't" for the modern trench coat.

Those modern trench coats do take certain liberties: While a classic trench typically is a double-breasted, belted and below-the-knee coat with a matte khaki finish, what's now being called a "trench" could be short, could be without a belt or it could be done in a shiny metallic fabric. But you're still likely to find at least one or more of the traditional details, such as epaulettes, buckles on the sleeves or a flanged back.

In years past, trenches were primarily a daytime, businesslike look, Andrews says, but now that there is a seemingly unlimited number of variations, they've become a must-have item. He thinks a short white trench is among the chicest.

"The trench coat has enduring style. It's classic like the little black dress, so it's never going to go out of fashion. But this season, it's been reinterpreted in so many ways," Andrews says.

For example, at Intermix there's a cropped leather trench cape by RED Valentino, Posen's satin one and several by Gryphon, an all-trench collection designed by a former Vogue writer. "This season has taken what was a traditional garment and brought a new fashion life to it," said Sari Sloane, the retailer's vice president of fashion and merchandising. "People are wearing trenches as a spring coat, as a layering coat, as a fashion item more so than an item you wear because it's raining."

It's Good to Buy Things

When we clean out our closets, the stuff goes to Goodwill. When Tim McGraw, Faith Hill, Nelly and other celebrities clean out theirs, they now turn to QLU — that's the founder with Hill's jeans, above — a new charitable organization that takes stars' stuff, sells it and donates the profits to the stars' chosen causes. Current auctions include Hugh Hefner's belt buckle (please clean — thoroughly — before wearing) and Nelly's dining room chandelier. Go to myqlu.com to see all auctions. ## Fly, My Frizzies, Fly!

You enjoy the warm weather, don't you, you mean straight-haired girls? You just can't WAIT for the entire city to be sauna-fied and us frizzy women to look like the spawn of Carrot Top and giant Q-Tips. This summer, we shall defeat you! The new GARNIER FRUCTIS SLEEK AND SHINE ANTI-HUMIDITY HAIRSPRAY ($3.30, drugstores) provides hold that is strong without being stiff, and smells really, really good. Tresses are still touchable, while maintaining a non-insane look.

Granted, we'll test this again when July rolls around, but we found it minimized flyaways and frizzies without gunking up hair. K.P.K.

Live Online

Freedom Rock

Washington Post music critic J. FREEDOM DU LAC was online Tuesday to talk about who may play at the V-Fest, what's up with Live Earth and whether Arcade Fire worth the hype.

Have you heard any rumblings about bands that might make an appearance at V-Fest?

Hearing lots of rumblings — from My Bloody Valentine and the White Stripes to Amy Winehouse to Bjork — but it's all rumor and speculation at this point.

Is Arcade Fire the latest hot group? I'm a little nervous about jumping on the bandwagon.

Given that it's made two pretty fine albums and has a reputation for putting on rather incredible live shows, I'd say no. It might well be the indie answer to Springsteen and the E Street Band.

Are you surprised that Ted Leo sold out the 9:30 Club for his show on Thursday? And what do you think of his new album?

Doesn't Ted Leo usually sell out his D.C. shows? I seem to remember a series of Black Cat dates that sold out well in advance. But I might be making that up. Haven't heard the new album yet, but looking forward to seeing him on Thursday.

How likely is Pink Floyd to reunite for Al Gore's Live Earth concert?

Not sure what their official position is on global warming, but they did come back for Live 8. In other news, Live Earth might not happen in D.C., after all. Sen. Harry Reid tried to take the resolution (authorizing the Capitol grounds to be used for the concert) to the Senate floor for a vote last Friday, and the GOP objected.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to see one or two things you never thought you would — particularly if you find yourself on the road.
